There was a smaller attendance than usual, owing to the illness of Secretary Blaine, and the absence from the city of Secretaries Foster and Noble. While the matter was thoroughly discussed it is understood no definite plan of action was determined upon. It is said the action was postponed until the next meeting in hopes the Cabinet would then have the benefit of Mr. Blaine's counsel.

CONCORD & MONTREAL RAILROAD.

The Supreme Court Files an Opinion in the Case of Jones and Others.

CONCORD, N. H., March 8. The Supreme Court has filed its opinion in the case of Jones and others, against the Concord & Montreal Railroad, in which plaintiff sought an injunction against the issue of new stock, to be distributed to all classes of stockholders in the Concord & Montreal Railroad. The Court holds the Corporation has a right to increase its stock as voted, and that the new stock must be distributed to all classes, as contemplated by the vote already passed. While the Court sustains the right of the Corporation to issue this new stock, and establishes the law as claimed by a majority of stockholders, that is, that the new stock must be distributed to all classes of stockholders in proportion to their ownership of stock, it holds that the stock cannot be issued under the vote already passed, on the ground that the notice for the meeting was insufficient for that purpose, because the notice in the call for the annual meeting, at which the vote was taken did not contain the article in relation to the proposed increase.

KILLED IN A FIGHT.

For Protecting the Good Name of his Daughter.

FLORENCE, S. C., March 8. T. N. Tolbert, the father of the international order of Machinists and at one time its National President, was killed yesterday in a fight with C. H. and W. R. Yesterday, Will, the elder brother, accompanied Charlie to get satisfaction from Tolbert. All parties were armed. The coroner's jury found Charlie, the principal, and Will, the accessory. Tolbert fired first. Machinists at the railroad shops quit work out of respect for their dead brother. Excitement is high and the jail will be guarded.

The rioters were pretty roughly used and were secured until the boat arrived here, when they were given in charge of the police and lodged in the station. At noon they were taken in charge by United States Marshal and taken before Commissioner Rand. Their case was not heard but was postponed until Thursday. Meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce.

LONDON, March 8. At a meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce held to-day, the President said the exports and imports during the past year had only decreased 4,750,000 pounds, but an examination of the details of the returns was not satisfactory, as there was a great decrease in almost every item of exports, the deficiency being balanced by a large increase in the imports of food. It is not easy, Col. Hill added, to determine how, for the decrease in exports was due to hostile tariffs or to the overstocking of foreign markets, but undoubtedly the political and commercial complications in South America and the McKinley bill in the United States were largely accountable for the decrease. In view of the injurious and sometimes excessive nature of the tariffs which protects it was secluded upon the continent and in the United States, it was only natural that England returned to her colonies. It behooves England to cultivate closely her commercial relations with the colonies.

Facts about Some Swift Vessels Building in Maine.

Matters and Incidents Worthy of Being Recorded.

Cumberland.

W. G. Sherman has been appointed postmaster at South Scarborough.

A meeting of the stockholders of the proposed plush mill to be located at South Portland was held in Portland Saturday. A large number of the stockholders were present and the meeting was very enthusiastic. A large number of the stockholders who were not present have signified their intention of taking more stock and the outlook is very promising. Building operations will commence at once and although the mill be built across the water it will prove a big boom to Portland as well. The first meeting of the directors will be held Tuesday. The company was formally organized Saturday. The name of the corporation is now the Portland Plush Company. The authorized capital is $200,000, subscribed between $80,000 and $90,000. The officers elected were as follows: President, Frederick Robie; Treasurer, Chas. A. Tilton; Board of Directors, Frederick Robie, Portland; Wm. G. Davis, Portland; John G. Gerrish, Portland; Isaac C. Atkinson, Portland; Puschal M. Thurlow, Lewiston; General Superintendent, Walter Ackroyd; Clerk, Chas. A. Tilton.

The weekly death rate at Portland continues to be high, nineteen last week, five of the deaths having been from pneumonia. The total number of deaths in the city for the year ending February 29th, was 686, an increase of 67 over the previous year, or 17.15 for each one thousand inhabitants. Of these deaths 91 were from phthisis, 86 from pneumonia, 29 from cholera infantum, 25 from cancer, 25 from brain trouble, 44 from heart trouble, 32 from paralysis, 28 due to inanition and 37 to old age.

Sagadahoc.

Jules Verne should visit Bath now. If he could climb upon the back of the big Ammen ram and look along that curved deck, which tapers to a point at either end—for the superstructure which is to give the craft a gunboat appearance at the bow has not yet been put on—he would declare that he was standing upon the back of Capt. Nemo's famous submarine vessel. It is the real "cigar shaped" boat, and none of the many cuts of it can give one any just idea of this peculiar craft. The curve of the deck is so flat that a man can easily walk along it anywhere ten feet from the sides, so that the difficulty of piercing the heavy armor which will protect it, can be easily appreciated. The superstructure which was added to the original design is only a convenience for the benefit of the crew in getting the anchor, etc., but it has not changed the type of the craft in the least, and if it should be entirely shot away, would leave the vessel just as she originally came from her designer's hands.

The rapidly increasing patronage of Maine's railroad and steamboat lines necessitates extensive additions to their means of transportation. The directors of the Portland, Mt. Desert and Machias Steamboat Company decided last year that a new boat was necessary. Acting upon this idea they lodged a contract with the New England Company, of Bath. The Frank Jones, now in an unfinished condition at the yard of the New England Company, is a side-wheel steamer of the following dimensions; Length at load water line, 250 feet; length over all, about 260 feet; greatest breadth of beam, 60 feet; depth of hold, 13 feet, 4 inches; beam 36 feet. Passing through the after gangway on the main deck, entrance is gained to the main hall, 40 feet by 19. On the port side is the ticket office, and on the starboard side the clerk's room. Aft of the main hall is the lower cabin. Forward is the freight deck, 85 feet in length, and about 40 feet average breadth. On the port side of this space are kitchen, ice and store-rooms, the cook's stateroom, lamp room and porter's room. Opposite on the starboard side are the engineers' and oilers' rooms, toilets and large closets. The machinery takes up the centre space on this deck amidships, and two large package rooms are located next the main after gangways. Descending into the hold we find the space reserved for machinery and boilers, and the men's cabin, with berths ranged along the sides of the vessel. The engines are the product of the Bath Iron Works, where they are now in process of construction. The dynamo will run 300 lights. The main saloon on the promenade deck is now in frame. The staterooms are arranged in alcoves and are to be 74 in number besides four bridal rooms. On the hurricane deck will be the pilot house, and here also the officers will find their quarters. A number of staterooms for the waiters are to be constructed on the paddle boxes. Her engines are compound and her machinery differing from the Kennebec and others of her class. The huge walking beam will be conspicuous by its absence. The paddle wheels are to be small compared with those on the other side wheelers, but of a type that ensures great speed. The calkers are through with their work and the Jones will go overboard about March 26. She will be towed to the iron works to receive her machinery about April 1st. Next summer, unless something unforeseen happens, she will be giving some of her sister vessels on the Maine coast, a few points on how a Bath-built steamer can make speed.

SEARLES WILL CASE.

The Famous Will Contest at Last Compromised—Hopkins Will Receive Three Millions of Dollars.

The announcement is made at New York that the Hopkins-Searles will contest has passed into history. Timothy Hogan Hopkins, the adopted son of Mrs. Mark Hopkins-Searles, has compromised his suit against Edward F. Searles for $3,000,000. The 24 or 25 relatives of Mrs. Searles have been placated, and now this case, one of the most remarkable in the history of the United States, is ended forever.

Both sides claim a victory, Wilhelmus Mynderse, of Butler, Stillman & Hubbard, says that Timothy Hopkins had found it advisable to now accept what Mr. Searles had offered him last year, while Russell J. Wilson, the counsel for Timothy, acknowledged that the other side had compromised the case.

Mr. Mymerse says Timothy Hopkins will get two or three millions in stock and bonds and California real estate. Mr. Mymerse added that there was no compromise.

Mr. Searles, said he, merely gave Mr. Timothy Hopkins these stocks and bonds and pieces of real estate. Mr. Searles offered to give Mr. Hopkins the same last year. It is a fact, however, that Mr. Hopkins unconditionally withdrew his appeal in the Supreme Court of Massachusetts last Wednesday from Judge Harmon's decision in the Hopkins-Searles will case.

SALEM, Mass., March 5. There was a rumor this morning that the Searles will case had been settled and that Timothy Hopkins had accepted three millions in settlement. Judge Endicott was seen at Salem and asked in regard to it, and stated that he must decline to talk about the matter. It is understood, by those who should know, that the negotiations are pending and the case is in a fair way of settlement if not definitely settled already, and that it was being kept quiet to get all the parties into the settlement.

Both sides claim a victory. Wilhelmus Mynderse, of Butler, Stillman & Hubbard, says that Timothy Hopkins had found it advisable to now accept what Mr. Searles had offered him last year, while Russell J. Wilson, the counsel for Timothy, gleefully acknowledges that the other side had compromised the case.

"How much does Timothy Hopkins get?" was inquired of Mr. Mynderse.

"Oh, two or three millions," said the young lawyer.

"Is this in a lump sum?"

"No; stock and bonds and California real estate."

"When was the compromise signed?"

"Now, don't say compromise" Mr. Mynderse pleaded. "There has been no compromise; there was nothing to compromise. Mr. Searles merely gives Mr. Timothy Hopkins these stocks and bonds and pieces of real estate. Mr. Searles offered to give Mr. Hopkins the same last year. It is a fact, however, that Mr. Hopkins unconditionally withdrew his appeal in the Supreme Court of Massachusetts from Judge Harmon's decision in the Hopkins-Searles will case."

"When was the appeal withdrawn?"

"Wednesday last."

It was like pulling teeth to get this much information out of the lawyer.

Russell J. Wilson, Timothy Hopkins's legal representative, was even less inclined to talk. "Yes, it is all settled; please excuse me from saying anything more," he said, retreating toward the door at every word. "We are satisfied and have made a very satisfactory adjustment of the case."

"How about the other heirs?"

"Oh, I understand the Searles people fixed it all up with them six months ago."

The suit to break the will was brought before Judge Rollin E. Harmon, of the Essex Court of Probate, at Salem, Mass., on Sept. 22, 1891. Many strange facts were brought out by the testimony. Searles swore that Mrs. Hopkins was the first to propose marriage to him. He refused to consider the idea at first, he testified, but after thinking over it for a year he decided to accept, and then he proposed to her.

"What did you mean by doing that?" he was asked.

"I wanted her to have time to see whether she had made a mistake in thinking of marriage," he replied. The first proposition Searles declared was made at the Windsor Hotel, New York, in 1883.

It was shown that immediately after the marriage Searles obtained practical control of Mrs. Searles' estate and that Timothy Hopkins had little or no communication with his foster-mother.

On October 24. Judge Harmon rendered a decision sustaining the will. This, however, was only a preliminary skirmish, and notice of appeal was immediately filed. A month later Annie C. Severance, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Lyman and Della Sherwood, of New York, filed notice of contest on the ground that the will was not properly drawn and that the testatrix was not of proper testamentary capacity.

Among the many disappointed claimants to the millions accumulated by Mark Hopkins were more than a score of first and second cousins, divided into two wings, or what might be known as the Hebbard and the Sherwood factions. Under the present arrangement it is believed that all these relatives have been placated by E. F. Searles.

This is a partial list of those who in one way or another contested the rights of both Timothy Hopkins and Searles to the Hopkins fortune: Nathaniel Hebbard, George Hebbard, Harriet Hebbard, Jane Smith, Alonzo Hebbard, Elisha Hebbard, Mrs. Charles Wheeler and Mrs. Jane Hollingsworth. The last four are second and the rest first cousins of Mrs. Searles.

Among the other faction are these relatives—all first cousins, by the way: Lyman Sherwood, Lydia Sherwood, Betsy Sherwood, Hester Sherwood, Mary Sherwood, Della Sherwood, Mrs. Jane Meals and Annie C. Severance of Los Angeles, Cal.

Of the first lot of claimants Harriet Hebbard and Mrs. Jane Smith, of Davenport Centre, Delaware county, N. Y., were two infirm old ladies, who had always received an annuity of $300 a year each during Mrs. Hopkins' life. When the contest began the Hebbard claimants engaged Lawyer Frank Rodgers, of Bridgeport, to look after their interests and co-operated with Timothy Hopkins. The Sherwood faction, on the contrary, started in to go it alone.

One cousin, Wm. Hebbard, is said to have died at Greenpoint, L. I., of a broken heart, owing to treatment he received at the hands of Mrs. Hopkins. She is said to have told Wm. Hebbard, who was an old man, to pick out a house and she would buy it for him. He is alleged to have selected a flat house which would return him about $1100 a year in rent. When he went to see her about the purchase at her home in Great Barrington she is said to have abused him shockingly, called him a beggar, and to have had him ejected from the premises. He returned home and died shortly afterward.

Nathaniel Hebberd, one of the claimants, lived at one time in Madison avenue, but Lawyer Wilson declared last night that he had no idea what his present address was. Another cousin, George Hebberd, was a postman, delivering letters in the Ridge road above One Hundred and Seventieth street, last summer, but no one in the neighborhood or at the sub-station at One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street and Tenth Avenue knew his address when I tried to find him last night.

More than a year ago Timothy Hopkins was offered $3,250,000 to give up his claim on the estate by Mr. Searles, but sent back word through his lawyers that he would not consider such a meagre offer for an instant.

And now he takes $3,000,000, and is happy.

A WOMAN AND A DEER

A REMARKABLE CAPTURE ON PINE RIVER IN MICHIGAN.

Mrs. John Towle, of Strongville, Has Had a Really Thrilling Experience in Her Life—This Story Shows That She Not Only Has Nerve but Strength.

One of the best known characters to the lumbermen and sportsmen of upper Michigan is Mrs. John Towle, of Strongville, a small deserted village on the Pine river, twelve miles below Rudyard, a station on the Soo railway thirty miles from here. Her home and name have become famous to the woodsmen and lumbermen on account of Mrs. Towle keeping a boarding house, where the woodsmen engaged on the drive in the spring have always stopped for their meals, it being the only house on Pine river for a distance of ten miles on each side of Strongville.

Mrs. Towle came to this country from Aalborg, Denmark, twenty years ago, and first settled down in Newport, Vt. She was called to attend her present husband, who was confined with a broken shoulder, after the doctors had given him up. She mended him in such good shape that Mr. Towle decided that she was the woman of his destiny, whereupon they were married and started for the wild upper peninsula of Michigan to make their home and fortune. Taking a homestead near the banks of the Pine river, Mrs. Towle has occasion to come to this city once about every two months with the produce of the farm and dairy. In the winter she can drive in, but in the summer there is no other way but to take a boat and row up the Pine river twelve miles to Rudyard station, where she can take the train for this point.

It is with one of those trips that this narrative has to deal. Mrs. Towle had left home with a boatload of produce as usual, and came to town with good success. On her return trip she was leisurely rowing home down the Pine river, with its high and very thickly wooded banks in some places, and sloping, moss covered banks in others. She had not gone far when she heard a rustling sound above her.

"OUT OF THE FRYING PAN," ETC.

On looking up she perceived a large deer standing on the edge of the precipice about fifty feet up, screaming, with a wolf hanging on its front quarter. The deer immediately jumped for the river, landing close to the shore, but the wolf still held its grip. It might be noted here that deer when attacked by wolves in this country will always make for the nearest river, as wolves will not go into the water unless they have a hold on their prey. The deer had no sooner left the ground to jump when two more wolves jumped down after him, followed by ten more. One of the wolves managed to secure a grip on the deer's hind quarters and took a chunk out the size of a saucer.

The deer, now thoroughly frightened and excited, on seeing Mrs. Towle in the boat started for the boat. The water not being very high it managed to get its fore feet into the craft, with the two wolves still hanging on. Mrs. Towle, although half scared to death, did not lose her presence of mind, but seizing her paddle struck the two wolves such blows on their heads that they released their hold and took to the shore, while the boat continued to drift down the river with the current. The wolves seeing this gave up hope and returned into the woods.

Mrs. Towle, now that the wolves were gone, found about enough of the sportsman left in her to have a desire to secure the deer. She raised her paddle and struck it a blow between the horns, which was not a very light one, by the way, as Mrs. Towle has always been used to the harder working side of life and is of strong physique. The blow stunned the deer for a few moments, and Mrs. Towle, thinking it was dead, started her craft for shore to place the deer in position to row the boat home with him.

MR. TOWLE FINDS THE DEER.

When she reached the shore and was about swinging the deer around by the tail the deer came to and started up the high bank, with Mrs. Towle hanging on to its tail. The deer succeeded in getting about half way up the bank when the skin on its tail, which Mrs. Towle was hanging on to, gave way and precipitated Mrs. Towle down the bank headforemost.

The deer by this time had become so weak from the loss of blood from the wolves' attack that it slipped and fell down the bank, landing on Mrs. Towle. She, thinking the wolves were after it again, nearly went into hysterics. The deer, however, on striking terra firma never moved again, and Mrs. Towle proceeded to load him in her craft and get home. She got him aboard, and after capsizing a couple of times reached her small dock, made of logs, in safety. Her home is three miles back in the woods from the river bank. She was obliged to leave the deer on the bank all night, it now being dusk.

In the morning, when Mr. Towle, her husband, went down for the deer with his pony and jumper, he was surprised to find a bear there munching away at the deer. The bear on seeing the man started for the woods. Bears will only show fight in the spring. Mr. Towle got the deer safely home, and it would be difficult to find a more interesting story to listen to than that of Mrs. Towle, sitting in her log cabin in front of the old log fire, telling her story in broken English of how she captured the deer.—Sault Ste. Marie Cor. St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Practical Fire Extinguisher.

A method has been devised for extinguishing fires by the effect of the fire itself, aided by the operation of electricity. A chemical generator of sufficient capacity is first provided, and from this pipes are carried into each room in the building. Attached to the ceiling of the room is a jar, in which acid is stored and inside of which a cartridge is placed. An open circuit battery is used. The thermostat in each room is set at any desired degree, say at 80 degs. In case of fire the mercury rises to this figure and the circuit is closed. This explodes the cartridge in the jar, a valve drops and the chemicals are precipitated into the room through a series of sprinklers.

There is also in connection with this device a system of dry pipes, and if it be found that the chemicals will not extinguish the fire, an officer on the outside of the building can determine by the enumerator in which room the fire is located, and by turning a switch can flood the room.—New York Telegram.

Meals in London from Philadelphia.

A well known firm of caterers in this city which has gained an international reputation for preparing terrapin, ship regularly every week to a gentleman in London two quarts of terrapin, which is served at the Sunday dinner. The terrapin is already prepared and is put up in tin cans. The firm pretty ring it claim that it loses none of its delicious flavor or qualities by this process. It comes a little high, but to a gentleman of means the price appears to be no consideration. The price paid per quart is $5, which, with the expressage, brings the total up to $6.25 per quart. The Londoner, to whom the weekly consignment is made is a former American, who doubtless cultivated a taste for this American delicacy while in this country.—Philadelphia Record.

The Good Derived from

HOOD'S

Sarsaparilla

All Run Down With Dyspepsia

The peculiar combination of stomach tonics and alterative remedies in Hood's Sarsaparilla cannot be equalled, and this superiority explains the wonderful success of

This Great Medicine

in cases of Dyspepsia, Indigestion and similar troubles. Mr. T. A. Wheelock, a well known citizen of Burlington, Vt., writes:

"Six months ago I was badly run down and unable to attend to business. The principal trouble seemed to be due to indigestion and aggravated dyspepsia. I had no appetite.

Nothing Tasted Good

and what I did eat distressed me. Added to this was a nervous disturbance. Physicians that I employed failed to reach my case. I grew worse, lost flesh and almost hope. One day I ran across a testimonial for Hood's Sarsaparilla stating what it had done in what seemed to be a case similar to mine. I got a bottle and in three or four days saw that I felt better. Before I had finished the first bottle was greatly improved. Rested better, felt better, and knew I was

Better All Over

I continued with the medicine, and have taken two bottles and now feel better than at any time for the past five years. Feel as hearty as when a boy. Have regained my flesh, have good appetite, can sleep well and my nerves are in excellent condition. I would not value a thousand dollars for what it did for me." T. A. WHEELOCK Burlington, Vt.

Fully Indorsed

"We have sold Mr. T. A. Wheelock several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and have heard him tell in high terms of commendation what it has done for him. I know that he has recommended to many others here. Our customers generally speak well of it." E. L. TAFT & Co., Pharmacists, Burlington, Vt.

Republican Caucus

Thursday evening the Republicans of Bangor will meet in general caucus in City Hall to nominate a candidate for Mayor. So far as we are informed but two names will be presented to the caucus, that of Mr F O Beal, who was the candidate last spring, and whose friends are anxious that he should run again, and that of Mr Charles I Collamore, who, at the request of his friends, has consented to become a candidate. We hope to see a large caucus composed of the representative men of the party, so that the nomination may reflect as fully as possible the wishes of the Republican voters of the city. A big caucus means an enthusiastic canvass and that means a Republican victory next Monday

The Rail-Road Lease.

The reporter of THE WHIG continued his interviews among the merchants, Tuesday, to get at the sentiment on the rail-road lease. Twenty-nine business men were seen and twenty eight of them declared that they should vote to lease the city's road, and one said he should vote "no" at the polls. The results thus far obtained are as follows: Total number seen, 68; in favor of the lease, 54; opposed, 8; undecided, 6. It will thus be seen that if the opponents are given the benefit of all who are undecided the ratio still stands six to one in favor of the lease among the solid business men of Bangor who have been seen by the reporter. We shall continue the list Thursday morning.

The [illegible] appointed at the citizens' meeting, consisting of Messrs. John Cassidy, James Adams and Judge Peters has reported to the City Council against the lease. The committee thinks that the B & P Road is worth its bonded indebtedness, that it should not be leased to the Aroostook Company without security and that in its opinion a purchaser can be found to take the road at its bonded debt. Our recollection is that a committee was appointed some time ago to find a purchaser, but if it was successful we have no knowledge of the fact

It seems to us that the interviews we are now publishing furnish a pretty strong answer to this adverse report. The proposition of the Aroostook Company has been before the people for some time. They have had ample opportunity to examine the question in all of its different phases—the reliability of the company, the nature of the security and the probable effects of the proposed line upon the future business of Bangor. All of these considerations have been carefully weighed by business men who act with deliberation in matters of this importance and more than six to one will support the lease at the polls

Our impression is that the sentiment in favor of disposing of the city's road is growing every day. We find many who unhesitatingly declare that in their judgment the future interests of the city will be better served by making the road a part of a direct line between Bangor and Aroostook than they would be should another purchaser be found to take it at its full bonded debt

Hypocracy Unmasked

The proceedings in the House Monday, afford an instructive lesson for the people. Ever since this Congress convened the handful of Eastern Democrats and Mugwumps have been trying to perpetrate a fraud upon the country by securing a postponement of the consideration of the silver question until after the election. In this contemptible work they have had the hearty co-operation of such papers as the Boston Herald which now says of the Republicans who refused to become a party to this conspiracy "They care nothing for the principle involved, or for the possible danger to the business of the country."

What the Herald is pleased to call the principle involved was simply a dirty piece of political subterfuge, the sole purpose of which was not to protect the currency, but to put a trick upon the people until after their votes are cast in the November election. The Republicans are practically unanimous in their opposition to the free coinage of silver and when that question comes before the House, will, with very few exceptions vote against the Bland bill. They are not, however, willing to aid dishonest minority in an effort to inaugurate a campaign of false pretences. The Republicans are ready to make a record on this legislation and submit it to the people, who have a right to know how the two great parties stand upon it before they pass judgment at the polls

Every one knows, and no one better than the Herald what the result would have been had the minority succeeded in defying action on this matter until after the election. In those States where the silver sentiment is strong the Democrats would have said to the people that the success of that party meant free coinage, while in the anti-silver States they would have insisted that the silver question was not an issue, having been voted down in a Democratic House. In other words they wanted another campaign like that of 1884 on the tariff, when Cleveland was declared to be a free trader in one State, and a Randall protectionist in another

The whole scheme was rotten to the core, for as was stated by Mr Boutelle, now is the safest time to protect the country from the dangers of free coinage if there had been any honest purpose on the part of any Democrat in the House to kill the matter outright. The silver sentiment is necessarily weaker to-day with an election pending than it will be at the next session when the restraint of the probability of popular disapproval is removed. No doubt that it would have made things easier for the Democrats had this session of Congress been postponed altogether, as it is their misfortune to be on the wrong side of all important questions but they must stand or fall on their record

Tontine Companies.

[illegible] they ceased [illegible] the real duty of protecting their families [illegible] and began instead to show the estimates of the profits that might be made out of the forfeiture of protection. Their experience had shown that in their companies out of a thousand men of middle age taking policies only about one third would pay premiums for say twenty years about one hundred of them would die but nearly six hundred would lapse—give up paying. So they proposed that no one should have any dividends for say twenty years but pay his premiums in full; that if any one died he should get the face of his policy leaving behind all the dividends his policy had earned and if any man lapsed—could not pay—he should forfeit all he had paid [illegible] the dividends earned and the reserve on his policy [illegible] of the twenty years those who had been lucky enough to live and pay through should [illegible] what the unlucky ones had left

CONGRESSIONAL.

Several Important Bills Introduced in the Senate.

The Pure Food Bill Taken Up and Somewhat Amended.

Senate Adjourns Owing to the Death of a Representative.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 8. Mr. Stanford introduced a bill, referred to the Committee on Finance, to fix the duty on opium at $7 a pound.

The calendar was taken up. The joint resolution to provide for an international bimetallic agreement was laid aside without action.

The bill appropriating $255,000 for the construction of two United States revenue cutters for service on the great lakes was passed.

The bill to establish a military post on the line of railway between Burlington and Highgate, Vermont, was passed.

At 2 o'clock the pure food bill was taken up as unfinished business, the question being on Mr Coke's amendment to strike out sections 7 and 8.

Mr. Faulkner moved to amend the seventh section by striking out the words "every person manufacturing or exposing for sale or delivery to purchaser any drug or article of food," and inserting in lieu thereof the words "every person who manufactures for shipment and delivery for transportation from any State or Territory to any other State or Territory any drug or article of food, and every person who exposes for sale, or delivers to a purchaser any drug or article of food received from a state or territory other than the state or territory in which he exposes for sale, or delivery said drug or article of food, which article is in the original unbroken package," shall furnish samples etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

A vote was taken on Mr. Coke's motion to strike out sections 7 and 8, and the motion was rejected.

Mr. Cockrell moved to strike out section 9; agreed to.

It declares violations of the act to be held to imply knowledge and intent on the part of the accused.

The second and other sections were amended to restrict their applications to original, unbroken packages.

Mr. Morgan moved an additional section providing for the prosecution of cases in any district court of the United States and for the seizure and confiscation of articles by process of libel or condemnation proceedings to be paid into the treasury.

The amendment was agreed to.

A vote was about to be taken on the passage of the bill when it was suggested that as it had been amended so extensively it should be printed before being voted upon. It was ordered printed.

The Senate at 3.20 went into executive session. After an hour's consideration in executive session the Behring Sea arbitration treaty was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

The doors were reopened at 4.25, when a message from the House announcing the death of Mr. Kendall was presented.

Mr. Blackburn offered the usual resolutions of respect and condolence, which were agreed to.

The Vice President appointed Messrs. Pasco, Hansbrough, Chilton, Warren and Gibson, of Maryland, to represent the Senate at the funeral.

As a further mark of respect the Senate adjourned.

CANADIAN VIEWS

Of the Question of Renewal of Modus Vivendi.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 8. Minister of Marine Tupper stated to-day that the chief contention against the renewal of the modus vivendi in the Behring Sea was that it was not necessary for the preservation of seal life as is held by the United States. Pelagic sealing did not threaten the extinction of the seal as alleged, the only danger of extermination lying in wholesale slaughter which had been carried on by the natives and the Alaska Company on the rockeries or breeding grounds.

Mr. Gordon, M. P., representing a British Columbia constituency, said the idea of the British cruisers doing police duty for the protection of the Alaska Company in the Behring Sea was absurd and should be denounced.

Had the Alaska Company kept faith last year and restricted their catch to the number limited by the agreement entered into between Great Britain and the United States, there might be some grounds to justify a removal of the modus vivendi this season, although he doubted whether pelagic sealing in the least endangered the seal fisheries or threatened them with extinction, as had been contended in certain quarters.

IOWA'S PROHIBITORY LAW.

Practically Wiped Out of Existence by a New Move.

Iowa Senate Adopts a Bill Allowing County Option.

Each County Will Settle Liquor Question for Itself.

DES MOINES, Iowa, March 8. The Iowa prohibition law was practically wiped out of existence to-day.

The Senate this afternoon, by a vote of 27 to 22, adopted the Gatch bill, which allows county option, each community being given the right to settle the liquor question for itself by elections, to take place not oftener than every five years.

UNITED STATES WILL INSIST

On Renewal of Modus Vivendi for the Coming Season.

WASHINGTON, March 8. The Cabinet meeting to-day was a most important one, notwithstanding the absence of Secretaries Blaine, Foster and Noble.

The entire session of two hours was devoted to the consideration of the Behring Sea question and Lord Salisbury's last communication in opposition to the renewal of the modus vivendi. All present participated in the discussion and the opinion was unanimous that the position assumed by the British government was untenable and not justified by the condition of the sealing industry.

The argument was made that the opening of the Behring sea for the present season to the slaughter of seals by poachers, would result in serious injury, if not total destruction of the industry.

It was decided to insist on a modus vivendi somewhat similar to last year, having for its object the protection of the seal by the joint action of Great Britain and the United States, pending a settlement of the questions at issue by arbitration.

Another matter considered was the transmission to the Senate of copies of the correspondence on this question that had taken place since January 6th, 1891, in order to aid that body in the consideration of the treaty of arbitration.

It was concluded to leave the question open for a few days. It is learned that Acting Secretary Wharton delivered to the minister this afternoon the reply of this Government to Lord Salisbury's note declining to renew the modus vivendi. The reply reiterates the position of this Government and insists on a renewal of the modus vivendi for 1891, for the coming season.

CAPTAIN INJURED

And Vessel Damaged in the Gale.

BALTIMORE, M. D., March 8. Capt. St. John, of the schooner Minnie Rowan, with ice from Horse Island, Maine, reports that they sailed for Baltimore Feb. 17. Three days out, off Winter Quarter shoal a gale from the northeast struck the vessel and she was somewhat damaged.

On the 23d a sea came over the port quarter and struck Capt. St. John. His left leg was injured and it crippled him. For twelve consecutive days the vessel rolled, with her rails under, but finally came out all right.

For seven years the captain has carried crutches on board to be used if one of his crew was injured and the captain himself was the first to use them.

OPPOSED TO ARBITRATION.

Senators Believe United States' Rights in Behring Sea Are Beyond Question.

WASHINGTON, March 8. This afternoon the Senate went into executive session to consider the arbitration question, received to-day from the President. The President's letter which came with the document was simply one of transmittal, without suggestion or recommendation.

The text of the treaty was read in full and a concise explanation of its terms and necessities of the case was made in behalf of the administration by a Senator. When he concluded there followed an animated discussion of the document.

The opposition took several forms and there were at least three different views of the subject. Most Senators resented bitterly the idea of ratifying any arbitration treaty. They held that the right of the United States to the waters acquired from Russia is beyond question and it would be a cowardly surrender on the part of this Government for it to consent to submit its right to the uncertain decision of foreign arbitrators.

Attention was called to the fact that one of the three foreign arbitrators who would really hold in their hands the final decision of the questions at issue would be a subject of a power with which our relations are very much strained, meaning Italy.

A considerable number of Senators appeared to believe that the approval of the treaty would be a distinct gain in the diplomatic battle, as it committed Great Britain to recognition of the fact that the United States had a claim to jurisdiction over the waters of the Behring sea under the Russian title—a point which she has heretofore steadily refused to allow.

A third party thought the treaty should not be approved finally without the addition of a clause renewing the modus vivendi.

Some Senators took the ground that while the treaty might safely be ratified by the Senate, the administration should be instructed that in the event of the continued refusal of the British Government to ensure protection of seals during the course of the arbitration, the vessels of the United States should seize every offending vessel without regard to nationality.

They announced that if trouble resulted from the adoption of this course they were prepared to fully support the administration in taking all necessary steps to give effect to the existing laws of the United States for the protection of seals.

After the discussion had progressed for an hour, the treaty was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

BUSINESS ITEMS.

I have been a great sufferer from catarrh for over ten years; had it very bad, could hardly breathe. Some nights I could not sleep and had to walk the floor. I purchased Ely's Cream Balm and am using it freely, it is working a cure surely. I have advised several friends to use it, and with happy results in every case. It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and it is worth its weight in gold. I thank God I have found a remedy I can use with safety and that does all that is claimed for it. It is curing my deafness.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

A Reception Tendered Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed

By the National Republican Auxiliary Association.

Mr. Reed Makes a Pithy Speech on the Occasion.

WASHINGTON, March 8. A reception was tendered this evening to Hon. Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, at the National Rifles' Armory, by the National Republican Auxiliary Association.

Senator Perkins, of Kansas, presided and congratulatory addresses were made by Hon. J. C. Burrows, of Michigan, and others, to which Mr. Reed responded. He said:

"Only one year ago last Friday, only one short year ago, March 4th, 1891, I had occasion to address the august assembly in the presence of many spectators. The Republican party had been subjected in the election just before to the severest reverse.

"All partisan malice could do had been done. Reproach, clamor, recrimination, derisive epithet were at high tide on every shore and seemed to be rolling landward still. I ventured then and to that audience to express my unshaken confidence that time would do justice to the House of Representatives of the 51st Congress and that verdict, history, the only verdict worth recording, would place the men of the majority on the list of those who had done the State some service. With all my faith I did not dream the verdict would be so swift, so sure, so complete. But history in this age of the world and this does work for the living as in the old days it used to do for the dead. Time has not justified all we did, but the catalogue is already large and every day brings its just additions. Since the new House came into being the majority have shown how incapable they are to cope with tariff revision. Unable to make warp and wool of their own, they confined themselves to trying to shoot holes through the cloth we made.

Land of Surprises,

"Disabled by prejudice and passion from adopting in its entirety the admirable system of rules left them by their predecessors, they aroused cries of shame in their own party by the ruthless manner in which they surpassed even their own false description of our acts. Since yesterday there remains but one solitary shred of the foundation on which they based their outcries and reproaches of two years ago, and that remains there in defiance of the opinion, the unanimous opinion, of the supreme court of the United States. Our works do follow us. Only two years ago these men connected the with every derisive epithet and every term of reproach. Elected since then Governor of his great State by the greatest majority of recent times, he lived to see returning prosperity justify his work and crown him with honors.

"Changes of extravagance and waste in like fashion are falling to the ground. All the rest of the country will soon know it as well as you know it in the District of Columbia, where you have seen that the only attempt to reduce expenditures has been on items like that on the streets whereby the growth of the nation's capital will be impeded, and like that on school books, whereby are lessened the chances of the education of the children of the poor.

"Meanwhile the Republican party, emerging from temporary disaster, turns a shining face to the future, and now as ever is the hope of progress of the people of the United States."

After the speech making the floor was cleared and the evening was passed in dancing.

These expressions of opinion are valuable as showing to the laboring man, the mechanics and citizens not in business circles, and who do not give the same attention to city affairs as do our wide awake merchants, what is thought of the proposal by those most conversant with the matter and whose interests are to be most affected by it.

FIRE LAST EVENING

At the Property of the Ira Goodhue Heirs on Fourteenth Street.

A few minutes after 8 last evening the alarm from box 47 brought out the fire department which was soon at the scene of the fire which proved to be at the property of the Ira Goodhue heirs on Fourteenth street, the house being occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Mitchell, who upon looking from the window, saw the stable on fire. She gave the alarm and the fire department was quickly on the spot.

Lines of hose were laid and in due time the flames were subdued. The stable was entirely destroyed, the ell partly so, and the main house was damaged by smoke and water. The most of the contents of the house were removed, and there was nothing in the stable. The loss will be several hundred dollars, which, it is understood, is covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it started in some part of the stable. Mrs. Mitchell fainted twice during the progress of the fire.

SEMINARY PASTORAL COURSE.

Interesting Lecture by Rev. Edwin P. Wilson, Tuesday Evening.

In the Seminary chapel Tuesday evening, the third lecture in the Pastoral course was given by Rev. Edwin P. Wilson, of Woodford's, before an appreciative audience, upon the subject: "Some of the Human Elements in a Successful Ministry."

After disclaiming that he used the term successful, to characterize his own ministry, the speaker went on to point out as the first element to which he wished to call the attention of his audience, the cultivation of speaking power. After enlarging upon this he spoke of the cultivation of simple and explicit statements, and quoted the saying of Aristotle, "If you would be a leader among men, you must think the thoughts of the wise, but express them in the language of the common people."

The next element referred to was the cultivation of good common sense in dealing with people, it being illustrated by many anecdotes, which had come to the notice of the speaker, of ministers who had failed for the lack of this quality. Downright honesty of character and of utterance on the part of speakers was mentioned as an important attribute, and the final requisite spoken of was that the pastor must win the love of his people if he wishes to do them good.

The address was full of instructive hints to the students present, and was much enjoyed by all present, Rev. Mr. Wilson holding the closest attention of his hearers from beginning to end.

THE BANGOR & AROOSTOOK.

The Extension of the Bangor and Piscataquis from Old Town to Bangor—Correspondence Between the City Committee and the Committee of the Aroostook Company.

The amended proposition of the Aroostook Railroad Company to the City of Bangor regarding the lease of the Bangor and Piscataquis railroad, has been published in THE WHIG, relating to the extension of the B. & P. road into Bangor. The correspondence between the committee of the City Government and the railroad company which led to the proposition has not been published, and as it shows the good intent of the B. & A. Railroad Company and their willingness to comply with the very proper demand of our citizens, we give the correspondence herewith:

BANGOR, February 21st, 1892.

To the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad Company.

Gentlemen:—The committee appointed by the City Council to receive and consider your proposal to lease the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad, are of the opinion that the citizens of Bangor demand that the road be extended into the City of Bangor; therefore, to meet the demands of the people, suggest that you add a clause agreeing to build an extension of said road from some point in the line of the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad into the City of Bangor.

By order of the Committee.
(Signed) JOSEPH F. SNOW,
Chairman.

BANGOR, Me., Feb. 22d, 1892.

Gentlemen of the Committee:

Your request of Saturday evening has been carefully considered. It has throughout, been the intention of the Bangor & Aroostook R. R. Co. to extend its line to Bangor, but for reasons which need not be here discussed it was deemed inexpedient to incorporate an agreement so to do into the proposition. In view, however, of your request, and also of the practical unanimity with which the citizens generally appear to desire a guarantee of the company's intentions in this direction, it has been decided to add an article covering the point, and we herewith hand the same to you as "Article 15."

We take this occasion to thank you in behalf of the Bangor & Aroostook R. R. Co. for the patient and courteous hearings accorded, and we pledge our best efforts, in case favorable action is taken by the city, towards the early and honest construction of a first class line of railway into and through Northeastern Maine, in the interest of Aroostook and Bangor.

(Signed)
EDWARD STETSON, C. F. BRAGG, F. W. CRAM, Committee of the B. & A. R. R. Co.

CITY GOVERNMENT MEETING.

Adverse Report of Citizens' Committee on Railroad Question.

At the regular meeting of the City Council last evening the following business was transacted:

IN BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Report of James Adams, John Cassidy and John A. Peters, a committee appointed at the citizens' meeting to report upon the advisability of leasing the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad to the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad Company, was read and accepted. The report recommends that no lease be made and is as follows:

To the City Council of Bangor:

The undersigned committee appointed by the citizens in general meeting assembled in City Hall on Feb. 16th ult. under a warrant of the municipal officers to consult upon the public good and especially to consider the proposition of the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad Company to lease the Bangor and Piscataquis railroad, and "requested to examine the condition of the Bangor and Piscataquis railroad to ascertain as nearly as may be the present value of the property, the cost of necessary repairs and what opportunities exist of disposing of the city's interest in the road and of relieving the city from its liability on account thereof, and to report to the city council as soon as practicable what information we obtain and our recommendations as to the best course for the city to pursue," have attended to our duty and beg leave to report as follows:

We have not made a personal examination of the condition of the Bangor and Piscataquis railroad since our appointment, but rely on the reports made from year to year by the directors to the Bangor and Piscataquis company, and the reports of the Railroad Commissioners and from the personal knowledge of John Cassidy, Esq., one of this committee, who has been an active director in said company for several years.

From such reports and statements and from the fact that no accidents attributable to defective road bed, bridges or equipments have happened, we feel assured that the road is in a sufficiently good condition to perform safely its business and will require no unusual or extraordinary outlay annually to keep it up to its present condition.

We are satisfied that the Bangor & Piscataquis railroad is now worth its bonded indebtedness, $1,225,000, which is less than $16,000 a mile, and that when the bonds mature in 1899 they can be refunded by the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad Company at a fair rate of interest without the guaranty of the city.

We are of the opinion that in the near future, and especially after the refunding of the maturing bonds, the road will be self-sustaining, and we are further of the opinion that whenever the city will authorize some one or more persons to sell or lease the road for the bonded indebtedness, it can be done to responsible parties with sufficient guaranties to perform the terms and conditions of their contract.

If the Bangor and Piscataquis railroad was worth $100,000 in excess of its bonded indebtedness in 1888, we see no causes which have reduced its value more than $100,000 since that time.

The only cause affecting the earning capacity of the road is the extension from Dexter to Dover, which, with proper attention and the increasing business can, in a great measure, be overcome.

The standing of the Bangor and Aroostook Company is not such as to inspire great confidence in its ability to perform any of its promises.

It appears to have $1,000,000 less original stock than it had when it secured its charter, and has passed into the hands of the Aroostook Construction Company with an authorized capital stock of $50,000 only, and by that company assigned to the American Express Company, conditionally, as security for its subscription of $200,000.

What effect these acts will have on its ability or success in the collection of the additional subscriptions of preferred stock it is not proper now to discuss, but sufficient is known to suggest caution in turning over to it so large a property in which so many are interested without any security for the performance of any one of its promises, much less to grant to it other valuable property not now connected in any way with the Bangor and Piscataquis road.

We are of the opinion that sound business policy does not warrant the sale or lease of the Bangor and Piscataquis road for less than the bonded indebtedness and available security that the terms and conditions thereof will be performed.

As a municipality we ought not to do with our property what a prudent business man would not do with his own property under like circumstances, and,

We therefore recommend to citizens of Bangor that they reject the pending proposition of the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad Company.

New Subscriptions.

Aroostook county is, as has been abundantly shown, wide awake in the matter of the proposed Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, and has given proof of her interest therein by her large subscriptions, but the people of that county are not yet done showing their faith by their works, and subscriptions continue to pour in. The following have been received by Mr. F. W. Cram in Houlton within a few days past and more are coming:

George B. Dunn,	$3,000

TO PROTECT PASSAMAQUODDY FISHERMEN.

Mr. Boutelle Secures Action for Marking the Water Boundary Line.

Our readers will remember that at the time of the seizure of seven American fishing boats near Cochran's Ledge off the harbor of Eastport last summer by the Dominion fishery cruiser Dream, Congressman Boutelle made a vigorous protest by telegraph to the State and Treasury Departments, which was promptly recognized by orders to U. S. Consul Neill and the commander of the U. S. revenue cutter Woodbury to investigate the case, the result being the restoration of the American boats to their owners. The plea of the Dominion officials was that the boats were fishing on the British side of the boundary line which runs through the waters between Eastport and Campobello Island, but the finding of the U. S. Consul and several officers was that the boats were on their own side of the invisible line. As a favorite fishing ground lies in the vicinity of the boundary line, and as in prevailing fogs it is impossible to determine accurately the position of boats charged with trespass, Mr. Boutelle urged upon the State Department the importance of some joint action by the United States and Dominion authorities for the definite establishment of the boundary line in those waters, and for placing buoys or other marks upon it. At the time of the recent visit of the Canadian Commissioners to Washington Mr. Boutelle called Secretary Blaine's attention to the published statement that an armed patrol had again been established by the Dominion authorities along the fishing boundary near Eastport, and renewing his request that definite measures be taken to fix the boundary and remove a vexatious cause of dispute. That the State Department's action has been as prompt in this matter as it was in taking up the case of the fishermen whose boats were seized last summer, the following letter will show.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, March 4, 1892.

The Honorable C. A. Boutelle, House of Representatives.

Sir:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 15th ultimo, recommending the adoption of measures for determining and making a certain part of the boundary line between this country and Canada.

In reply I have to inform you that the subject referred to was considered during the conferences had in this city with the Canadian Commissioners during the last month; and it was agreed to appoint with as little delay as possible, two commissioners to determine upon a method of more accurately marking the boundary line between the countries in the waters of Passamaquoddy Bay in front of and adjacent to Eastport, and to place buoys or to fix such boundary marks as they may determine to be necessary.

I have the honor to be, sir,
Your obedient servant.
WILLIAM F. WHARTON,
Acting Secretary.

AMUSEMENTS.

Cynthia's Lovers.

This play, by the author of "The County Fair," will be presented at the Opera House this evening, the engagement being for one night only. Quite elaborate scenery is carried for the piece and the cast of characters contains the names of several people favorably known in the profession.

The County Fair.

Commencing Monday next, the famous rural comedy "The County Fair," which bears the remarkable record of three years' consecutive run in New York at the Union Square Theatre, and successful presentations en route, will be presented at the Opera House for two nights, with special matinee Tuesday afternoon. This play, like its companion picture, "The Old Homestead," depicts certain phases of New England life which are most amusing and entertaining. Its central figure is Abigail Prue, a certain prim and practical spinster, whose many absurdities keep the audience in a constant roar. Around her revolve other easily recognized characters. There is the crusty old granger, the precocious waif, the erring lad, the pure and tender young girl whose life has been spent among cherry blossoming trees, while up through it all comes the pervading incense of honest lives, bound together by simple ways and good deeds.

It is a refreshing, funny and pure entertainment, furnished magnificently with a car load of scenery, and is rounded off with something interesting to everybody. A running horse race, in which real horses and jockeys are used and which will surpass in realism anything ever seen on the local stage. A carefully selected company will interpret the play, and theatre goers are promised a treat in the forthcoming production, which will be one of the most pretentious of the season, being brought direct from San Francisco, where it has just closed a five week's run at the Baldwin theatre. The sale of seats will open to-morrow morning at nine o'clock.

Orono Grange.

A grange to be known as Orono Grange was organized at Mayo's Hall, Orono, last evening, under the direction of County Deputy J. W. Green, of Bangor, assisted by State Deputy E. H. Gregory, of Bangor.

About thirty persons became charter members, and the outlook is very promising. Many of the most substantial citizens of the town have entered the order, and others have signified their sympathy and purpose of co-operating in the work in the near future.

The following officers were elected:

Master, Charles Buffum.
Overseer, O. T. Goodridge.
Lecturer, Samuel Libbey.
Chaplain, S. H. Powell.
Steward, H. M. Estabrook.
Asst. Steward, A. Spencer.

Light Food Before Retiring

The value of a light gruel or other food taken just before retiring is not generally appreciated People who enjoy a night supper are quite apt to do it surreptitiously as if they were doing something which was not quite proper from a hygienic point of view As a matter of fact however when the powers of the body have been taxed beyond the usual hours of retiring food is necessary It should not be heavy food of course such as will induce restlessness or a leaden sleep full of unhappy nightmares, but light wholesome food taken just before retiring. This is a very excellent thing, for women of a delicate nervous physique who are inclined to sleeplessness.

A bowl of oatmeal gruel delicately made of half milk a glass of hot milk or of warm clam broth or of almost any other light broth will often bring a night of sleep and sweet dreams when nothing else will A great many people who eat sparingly at their meals require such food as this before they go to bed and require also a cup of coffee before they rise in the morning, and such extra food will do more to build up their strength than a dozen tonics. A great deal of sleeplessness is said by physicians to be caused by an unconscious craving for food which a light broth at bedtime will satisfy —New York Tribune.

Antiquity of a Slang Expression.

In the book of Job appears the sentence, "I am escaped with the skin of my teeth," which is modernized "by the skin of my teeth," and gives the idea of a narrow escape, one so close as to be just by the thickness of the skin on the teeth, which is so thin that no microscopist has yet been able to find it. "To cast in the teeth" means to throw defiant, reproaches or insults spitefully, as one would cast a stone at the exposed teeth of a snarling dog. "Tooth and nail" denotes the manner of an action full of frenzied fury—[illegible] biting and scratching, as when [illegible] make the fur fly.—Kansas City Star.

CHILD ON THE JUDGMENT SEAT.

BY MRS CHARLES.

Editor of Whig and Courier

I was glad to find, for an "inquiring friend," in my scrap-book, this poem, "Child on the Judgment Seat," by the author of "The Chronicles of the Schonberg Cotta Family" Will you make room for it in your paper and oblige others besides

E. H. C

Where hast thou been toiling all day sweet heart
That thy brow is burdened and sad?
The Master's work may make weary feet,
But it leaves the spirit glad

Was thy garden nipped with the midnight frosts
Or scorched with the mid day glare?
Were thy vines laid low or thy lilies crushed,
That thy face is so full of care?

No pleasant garden toils were mine
I have sate on the judgment seat,
Where the Master sits at eve, and calls
The children around his feet

How camest thou on the judgment seat
Sweet-heart who set thee there?
'Tis a lonely and lofty seat for thee
And well might fill thee with care

I climbed on the judgment-seat myself
I have sat there alone all day
For it grieved me to see the children around
Idling their life away

They wasted the Master's precious seed
They wasted the precious hours
They trained not the vines nor gathered the fruits
And they trampled the sweet meek flowers

And what didst thou on the judgment seat?
Sweet heart, what didst thou there?
Would the idlers heed thy childish voice?
Did the garden mend for thy care

Nay that grieved me more I called and I cried
But they left me there forlorn
My voice was weak and they heeded not
Or they laughed my words to scorn

Ah the judgment seat was not for thee
The servants were not thine
And the eyes which fix the praise and the blame
See farther than thine and mine

The voice that shall sound there at eve sweet heart
Will not strive or cry to be heard
It will hush the earth, and hush the hearts
And none will resist its word

Should I see the Master's treasure lost
The gifts that should feed his poor
And not lift my voice (be it weak as it may)
And not be grieved sore?

Wait till the evening falls sweet heart
Wait till the evening falls
The Master is near and knoweth all
Wait till the Master calls

But how fared thy garden plot sweet heart
With thee on the judgment seat?
Who watered thy roses and trained thy vines
And kept them from careless feet

Nay that is saddest of all to me
That is saddest of all
My vines are trailing my roses are parched
My lilies droop and fall

Go back to thy garden plot, sweet heart
Go back till the evening falls,
And bind thy lilies and train thy vines
Till for thee the Master calls

Go make thy garden fair as thou canst
Thou workest never alone
Perchance he whose plot is next to thine
Will see it and mend his own

And the next may copy his sweet heart
Till all grows fair and sweet
And when the Master comes at eve
Happy faces his coming will greet

Then shall thy joy be full sweet heart
In the garden so fair to see
In the Master's words of praise to all
In a look of His own for thee!

I have been a great sufferer from catarrh for over ten years, had it very bad, could hardly breathe Some nights I could not sleep and had to walk the floor I purchased Ely's Cream Balm and am using it freely, it is working a cure surely I have advised several friends to use it, and with happy results in every case It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and it is worth its weight in gold I thank God I have found a remedy I can use with safety and that does all that is claimed for it It is curing my deafness —B W Sperry Hartford, Conn

IMPORTANT FOR YOU.

If you are sick and have not been helped, why do you not write a full description of your case to the great specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., known everywhere as the discoverer of Dr Greene's Nervura, and who is without doubt the most successful physician in the cure of all long-standing complaints?

Consultation in all cases is entirely free, personally or by mail. Thousands consult him by letter, and he returns an answer to all perfectly explaining their diseases, giving advice, etc., without charge.

His success in curing diseases by his marvellous vegetable remedies is simply wonderful, and he has made a specialty of the cure of persons at a distance through letter correspondence and treatment. In this manner thousands of people have been and thousands more are being cured, and we should advise you, if you desire a sure cure from your disease, to immediately write him all about your case. It will cost you nothing to get his very valuable advice.

A MATTER OF COMPLEXION.

Blond Women Said to Be Growing Scarcer, Giving Place to Brunettes.

"Blond women are becoming scarcer every year," said an eminent anthropologist. "You have not lived long enough to remark the fact, but women with blue eyes and light hair are gradually passing away as a type In each successive generation there are fewer of them than in the last. Already such a thing as a real blond purely such, is so rarely seen in this country as to excite remark Golden tresses are so very infrequent that real ones are usually suspected of being dyed In short, it has become evident that before very long there will be no blond women any more

"The same thing is true of men Among their sex light hair and blue eyes are fast disappearing You may judge how rapidly they are going when you consider the fact that wherever a brunet man marries a blond woman or vice versa 66 per cent of the children born have dark hair and eyes At that rate not very many centuries will be required to wipe out the blond type altogether You wonder how this matter has been determined with such accuracy? Simply by including such statistical observation in the census of nations. In Germany and France the very school children are examined and have their characters recorded from an anthropological standpoint

Observations made in this way so as to cover millions of persons of both sexes have resulted in the discovery that the dark people bring more children into the world than do the light people Furthermore they have greater muscular vigor and they live longer Thus in every point which has to do with the perpetuation of a species they are superior The rule in nature seems to be that pigment which produces the color of the hair and eyes is an indication of force Albinos among animals and pallid plants are always weak

After all there are comparatively few light people in the world All the straight haired races are dark All the aboriginal Americans are dark from the arctic circle to Cape Horn All the Asiatics are dark All the Oceanic people are dark All the Africans are dark except a few blond tribes in the Barbary states Likewise all the southern Europeans are dark The dark people have the great advantage of being able to stand any climate while the light complexioned races cannot endure the heat of the tropics.

An apparent contradiction to all this is afforded by the fact that wherever the light haired and blue eyed peoples have come into conflict with races of dark complexion the latter have always been defeated The light people govern the world to-day Queen Victoria has blue eyes and the sun never sets on her dominions Descendants of Anglo-Saxons dominate the New World Even South America Africa and the civilized part of Asia are fairly run by the English and Germans. Germany leads all the nations of the earth in science and learning and three-fourths of her population are blue eyed The yellow haired Swedes Danes and Norwegians furnish the sailors of the world English is the language of the globe French has often been called the universal language but it is in fact merely a court language outside of France The Chinese have a pidgin English, but not a 'pidgin' French All the modern jargons of the world, for trade purposes are modifications of English

"The blue eyed and light haired people are by far the most brave of the moderns By their superior intelligence and bravery they have conquered the world but their task in accomplishing this has implied an enormous strain upon their powers. So great a strain has not been conducive to the prolongation of their existence and to the perpetuation of their kind Races of people are like breeds of horses and cattle, or like stocks in plants They last for awhile but not forever disappearing sooner or later If a severe strain is put upon them in one way or another they will pass away so much the more quickly The high culture we are giving our children stimulating their mental activities to the utmost has the effect of reducing the number and physical strength of their offspring thus shortening the life of their race

So owing to such causes as these we find that the blue eyed and light haired people are diminishing in numbers at a very rapid rate We take notice of it in the women particularly Soon must we say, Farewell ye golden tresses and violet orbs! During centuries to come the dark people are destined to achieve and hold domination in the world until, as is very likely the cycle of complexion has gone around and the blond shall rule again "— Washington Star

When Christ Was Born

Speculative and philosophical writers have long since established the fact that we have no proof that Dec 25 is the date of the birth of the Messiah At one time the beginning of the Christian era was supposed to conform with the great event above mentioned but it has been pretty clearly established that Christ was not born on the day we celebrate as Christmas or at any other time during a winter month.

The date now unanimously agreed upon by scholars is April 5 not April 5 of the year of one but April 5 4 B C This error in our mode of reckoning time is supposed to have arisen from the fact that the dating of time A D was not introduced until about the year 527 of the Christian era —St Louis Republic
